

Oranges
The quality and flavor of the fruit depends upon

Potash

Oranges absorb large quantities of Potash and the orchard should be replenished by a complete fertilizer rich in Potash.

Soliculture is a scientific problem. Our books giving full details will be mailed free to any farmer who writes for them.

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT.

In the Circuit Court of Marion County, Fifth Judicial Circuit of Florida, Fall Term, 1903.

To the Honorable W. S. Bullock, judge presiding:

The grand jury for Marion County respectfully submits to your honor this, their final presentment.

In the discharge of our duties we have endeavored to weigh all the evidence presented to us carefully and have presented to your honor such violations of the law as seemed to us clear.

Justices

We encountered great confusion in the papers of the various justices in the matter of binding over witnesses to attend court. In a great number of cases the witnesses were subpoenaed to attend upon wrong dates, thus entailing delay and expense in getting them before us.

To obviate this trouble, as well as to fix the responsibility where it should rest upon any future delinquents, we recommend that the legislature of the state enact a law requiring every justice to furnish to each witness bound over a slip of paper designating the date upon which he shall attend court, and properly signed by himself.

Public Roads

We visited the public road known as the Anthony road, and we feel that we state it mildly in saying that our worthy commissioners blundered both as to the selection of the route as well as in the means of construction. The first, in that it was a departure from the system already put in operation by themselves, a failure to utilize a good road already constructed and in use part of the way; abandoning a route already cut out that had been carefully selected by two competent men, selected by themselves, and a route lined with good material for its construction the entire way, and selecting a route that presented great physical difficulties and with building material accessible only at a great expense. The second blunder, we think, was in buying the road machinery. We find the traction engine and roller in what appears to be a chronic state of decrepitude and needing another trip to the foundry for repairs. We think it faulty in design and unfit for the purposes for which it was intended, as evidenced by the wear of its parts and the breakages in usage. We earnestly advise its permanent retirement from service and a return to the system known as the McLeod system.

We find that the water is supplied to the boilers in use and to the hands by a hired wagon at an expense of $2.50 per day. This is a proposition that would not be entertained by any mill man for five minutes. They had better dig a well.

County Clerk's Office

We find that the same admirable system of handling the public records obtains in this office that has marked the occupancy of the present incumbent.

Sheriff's Office

We find the few books pertaining to this office neatly kept by the present very efficient officer.

County Superintendent of Public Instruction

We found this office ably administered by the present incumbent. He and the county school board are to be congratulated for the economic handling of the school funds. For the year 1902 there were enrolled 2432 white and 3684 colored pupils, and the expense amounted to $34,850.70. The enrollment this year is greater still, and the school fund, for the first time in many years, equals the warrants drawn against it.

County Treasurer

We found the books of the county treasurer neatly and carefully kept, and the treasurer himself an urbane and obliging officer.

The county assessor being absent from his office, we did not examine the office.

The County Judge

This office, like all others that we visited, sadly needs some fireproof receptacle for the papers, and we would most earnestly call attention to this fact, in view of the incalculable loss and confusion that would result from the destruction of the records of the county by fire. We feel that it would be entirely useless for us to say anything in commendation of the honored citizen who occupies the office.

County Jail

We find the jail in good sanitary condition and the prisoners well fed and kept.

Poor Farm

We visited the poor farm and found the inmates well cared for, but at an expense that seems to us rather high. There are now seven inmates, all men, four are colored and three white. We note that last month's expenses amounted to $89.65. Taking this as an average, the cost is $12.80 each per month, for which amount first class board could be procured in the country. We would not be understood as opposing the poor farm, but we find that under the old system there were 55 to 60 beneficiaries of the county at a cost of about double the present expenditure, and it must be evident that many under the old system still need help but are debarred from some condition to us known, of availing themselves of the county's bounty at the poor farm. If these conditions are such as can be removed, we would request our commissioners to give the same attention. We find that the cattle on the farm are the private property of the manager. This, we think, is bad management. If it is advisable to keep cattle there at all, and we concede that it is, then the county should own them.

Unpaid Licenses

We find that there is a long list of professional men and business firms who have not paid their licenses. The collector tells us that he furnished a list of the same to the comptroller and to the state's attorney, but that he has had no response from them. As this is a manifest injustice to the men who do pay licenses, we would call the attention of the governor of the state and bespeak his action in the matter to abate this evil.

We desire to extend to the officers of this court our sincere thanks for courtesies extended to us during the term, and especially to Mr. Alfred, our state's attorney, for the able assistance rendered us in dispatching business.

Having completed our labors, we respectfully ask that we be discharged.

The Ocala Banner.

Mr. John P. Collie, editor of Southern Industry, has the following to say of this paper:

"The Ocala Banner is the oldest paper in the state which has been continuously published, it having been established in 1896. Mr. Frank Harris, its editor and proprietor has been connected with it the greater part of the time since its establishment, having a record of over thirty-three years as a journalist. When the Banner was established Ocala was a hamlet of possibly 300 souls, today it is a handsome brick city of five thousand inhabitants, and the Banner has grown from an infant into strong manhood with an addition to its importance in the shape of a daily edition. Mr. Harris is a native of the state being born at Tallahassee, his father having fought in the early Indian and Mexican wars. He has held various offices of trust but has declined many political honors, feeling that his best field of work was in moulding public opinion in his chosen field of journalism. He is, however, one of the trustees of the Florida University. Miss Sara E. Harris is the local editor and fills the position with credit to herself. Mr. P. V. Leavengood is manager of the paper and to his business tact much of the present success of the paper is due.

PROF. BASSETT'S CASE

From the Baptist Witness.

Young Professor Bassett, of Trinity College, the Methodist college of North Carolina, has brought himself disagreeably to the notice of the public by the assertion that Booker Washington is the greatest man born in the South within the last hundred years, with the exception of Robert E. Lee. Young Mr. Bassett has a most decided right to his opinion, it matters not how large nor how small the brain that conceived it. Yet we think it unfortunate that a man employed to teach Southern youths should plan to bring himself into public notice by such means. If he is a man of any sort of large intelligence he knew quite well that such a statement would serve only one purpose, namely, controversy leading to ill feeling. By the expression he has assuredly gained a reputation, one indeed which it might be reasonably presumed he looked forward to when he gave utterance to the totally valueless opinion that the intelligent colored educator was so pre-eminent above all the great men of the South. We are pleased, however, that the demand for his resignation was not acceded to by the trustees of the college. This we say, despite the fact of our skepticism of such wisdom possessed by him as really entitles him to occupy the place he holds. On the other hand, as the late John A. Broadus used so frequently to say to his pupils: "This is a free country, young gentlemen, and a man is entitled to his opinion, whatever that opinion may be." There is certainly no true note of the reformer in Mr. Bassett's words.

The Boston Watchman, usually an exceedingly correct newspaper and pre-eminently just to the South, shows an absolute misconception of this whole matter in the following: "This resignation of Prof. John Spencer Bassett of Trinity College, the Methodist Episcopal college, of Durham, N. C., has been occasioned by the criticisms upon his recent essay in the South Atlantic Quarterly, that called for justice to the negro, and an equality, not of social resignation, but of opportunity in the race of life."

The Outlook has the same misconception.

While Booker T. Washington is greatly honored in the South for what he has done, his extreme and foolish exaltation by a teacher in a prominent college (the statement belittling directly and insulting the great men of the south) would naturally array criticism and make the wisdom of the teacher questionable. However, it is of course not the thing to do to directly demand his resignation upon such a charge.

It will be good news to the mothers of small children to learn that croup can be prevented. The first sign of croup is hoarseness. A day or two before the attack the child becomes hoarse. This is soon followed by a peculiar cough. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the rough cough appears, and it will dispel all symptoms of croup. In this way all danger and anxiety may be avoided. This remedy is used by many thousands of mothers and has never been known to fail. It is, in fact, the only remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists and medicine dealers. m

A Business Change.

Mr. John R. Martin has purchased Mr. Richard S. Hall's interest in the firm of Crosby and Hall, and will become an active partner.

Mr. Martin is a born judge of a horse as his selection of Miranda, who has since become famous, out of a carload of ordinary horses, testifies.

But this, however, is only one instance in many.

Mr. Martin has almost grown up with Ocala and is thoroughly identified with her interests and is a thoroughly successful business man.

We predict that the firm of Crosby and Martin will be a prosperous one.

Better Than a Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected parts, is better than a plaster for a lame back and for pains in the side or chest. Pain Balm has no superior as a liniment for the deep seated, muscular rheumatic pains. For sale by all druggists and medicine dealers. m

To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mrs. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says, "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." There are people in this community who need just such a medicine. For sale by all druggists and medicine dealers. Every box warranted. m

A Marriage in which Ocala is Interested.

A very quiet but very pretty home wedding united Mr. Louis Frazer Driver and Miss Elizabeth Fondren Smith last night. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's mother on Jackson street, by Rev. S. L. McCarty. Only the relatives and intimate friends witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Driver left on the midnight train for New Orleans where they will spend several days. After their return they will be at home at Mr. Driver's residence on Dawson street.—Thomasville (Ga.) Enterprise Nov. 9.
